

Polycom Employee Data Incident

May 25, 2023

HP recently became aware of a cyber incident involving unauthorized third-party access to some legacy Polycom-related employee data.

If you were employed by Plantronics, Inc. ("Poly") between 2013 and 2019, we believe some of your personal information was exposed as a result of this incident and may include your national ID number, number, name, address, and bank account number.

If you have questions, please do not hesitate to reach out to dataprotection@hp.com.

Please be assured that we take the privacy and security of personal information very seriously and are working hard to protect our current and former employees' information. HP has engaged the services of cybersecurity experts and notified relevant government authorities.

