POLY ENVISIONING SERVICE

The process of implementing a new solution into your existing technology environment can be particularly demanding. There are the countless meetings spent justifying potential business value, long hours dedicated to upfront launch planning and design stages, and, of course, ensuring your employees not only grasp the importance of the technology, but learn the different ways to maximize its use once it's live.

Poly Envisioning Service is intended to capture your required collaboration-enabled business workflows and propose a path towards a new target architecture and/ or Unified Communications and Collaboration (UC&C) usage model. You receive an in-depth plan to fully deploy Poly collaboration solutions and integrate Microsoft and other third-party platforms into your organization.

Poly Envisioning Service documents your required collaboration-enabled workflows, proposes the detailed architecture of the Poly collaboration solution, and determines key milestones with budgetary information to further design, deploy, and operate the solution for the most optimal outcomes. You'll gain a clearer understanding of how Poly solutions meet specific business needs, identify features that align with your goals, determine technology environment interdependencies, recognize limitations, and build successful strategies, budgets, and high-level plans.

The service is delivered in four phases:

Phase 1: One-day remote discovery workshop
Phase 2: Architecture design and use case analysis
Phase 3: Executive summary presentation for designing a high-level architecture
Phase 4: Final Service Report compiling all findings and recommendations

Also offered is the Poly Envisioning for Microsoft Teams, designed to accelerate digital transformation and assist you in achieving greater business value through the usage and adoption of Microsoft Modern Workplace Cloud Solutions.
