Answers You Need to Survive in the Hybrid Work Era

In this paper, Frost & Sullivan has analyzed key workplace transformation and meeting trends emerging in the post-pandemic era and made strategic recommendations on how to RESPOND, RESET AND REBOUND by building the foundation of tomorrow's distributed work on connected teams.

The socio-economic impact of the COVID-19 pandemic is difficult to fully predict with many factors in flux. One thing is amply clear—it will FOREVER CHANGE the way we work and collaborate.

As REMOTE AND HYBRID WORK become the new normal, what will the communications landscape look like? How will widely dispersed teams stay engaged and productive with co-workers, customers and partners? How will IT ensure security, manageability and control in the new era of distributed work?

Winning organizations will be the ones that lead with TRANSFORMATIONAL THINKING and reinvent digital work to create better experiences for employees and customers, improve collaboration and productivity, and reduce costs.
